To Whom it may Concern.

Due to the concern of various customers, we have investigated the possibilities of our base film suppliers using or adding into their process the various phalate family of chemicals.

It has been confirmed that NO Phthalic Acid or Phthalic Anhydrides or their compounds are used in the manufacturing process of our base film suppliers.

This process involves the extrusion and orientation of the various polymers and no chemicals containing these various elements, that are causing concern, are required to produce this product.
